Camp Disciplinary Policy

During camp we have several actions we take when presented with discipline problems. Usually just talking to the camper and redirecting them will take care of the problem, but if that does not solve the issue these are the next levels of progression:

First - Verbal warning by the counselor and redirection.

Second - Remove camper from the activity and send to office for a talk with Camp Directors and time out.

Third - Parents called and the problem discussed.

Fourth - Camper is sent home for the rest of the day.

If the discipline problems continue, if the camper poses a safety concern for themselves, other campers, or the staff, the camper will be suspended from camp for one week. Any other infractions will result in expulsion from camp for the rest of the summer.

There is no refund for that week if a camper is sent home for disciplinary reasons.

We require these policies to insure our camp is a safe and fun environment for learning for all our campers.
